From the Principal...

Changes to school Information

This week we have sent home on bright orange paper, a request to publish students work and photos. These new requirements are part of the changes to the enrolment procedures of students in public schools. If you would like your child's photo published in newsletters, on the school Internet site and school app you must sign the letter and return it to the office. If you do not give Permission this needs to be ticked and signed and returned to the office.

Medicare update Information

This week on bright orange paper an updated request for student Medicare details is required as part of the enrolment requirements in public schools. Please note all notes on orange paper are to be returned and completed by parents/caregivers.

Surveys

Thank you to the many students and families for completing surveys. We have had two surveys on cream paper that have sought your opinions about the culture of the school and your response to our Kool Kids program. We appreciate and value your opinions and commitment to improving our school.

Library News

A GENEROUS GESTURE!

Braddock’s Yellamundie Library is enjoying a much welcomed injection of really exciting new books at the moment following a very successful Book Fair during Book Week earlier this term.

Our annual Book Fair is currently sourced from a Central Coast company called “Central Books” who return 30% value of the total Book Fair sales back to our school in the form of new books for our Library. As well as benefiting from such a splendid commission in this way, our Library also enjoys the many additional new books gifted to us through the generous donations made by several Braddock families.

We would really like to sincerely thank the Hanley, Hooke, Draper and Price families for their amazing generosity and continued support of our school and especially of our Library.

You help make our school a great school!
